

4620 Cultural/Economical/Historical/Archaeological Sensitive Areas

4620.1 Economically Sensitive Areas

The primary purpose of Table 4620.1A is to identify and incorporate into emergency response planning, the specific resources subject to injury or damages from an oil spill event. Subsection 4620.1 contains information that identifies through lists, tables maps, and text, many of the economic resources that face potential damages due to an oil spill. Limitations of time, personnel, and the availability of information suggests that all resources of significant economic value and susceptible to marine oil spills, could not be identified at this time.

People involved with response planning recognize that throughout California marine waters, along the State's shoreline, and within coastal communities there are many resources of economic importance that could be severely impacted by an oil spill incident.

4620.2 Relation to Environmentally Sensitive Areas in Section 4610

Tab A contains maps and site summary sheets with information about the environmental sensitivity of specific locations within the planning area. State and Federal law establish three priority levels for dedication of emergency oil spill response resources.

- First Priority - Protection of human health and safety
- Second Priority - Protection of environmental resources
- Third Priority - Protection of economic resources

Examples of resources that will receive a first priority response (human health and safety) includes:

- power plant intake
- desalination plants
- drinking water intakes
- other health/safety intakes
- public use areas at risk
(e.g. fire department)
- (e.g. hazardous fumes)

Environmentally sensitive sites are designated as the second priority for oil spill response resources. Environmental sites are categorized in Section 4610 using a scale of A, B, and C. Sites ranked with an A are the most sensitive to an oil spill.

4620.3 Economically Sensitive Areas

Strictly economic resources are designated as the third priority for dedication of oil spill response resources, following human health and safety and environmental resources. The economic sites are ranked using a continuation of the environmental scale with D, E, and F categories. Economic resources that have a greater potential for long-term damages receive a higher rank or priority for emergency response.

Response planners recognize that marine resources can have environmental, economic, and cultural or historical importance, such as coastal parks or important fishing areas. In these cases, the higher environmental ranking would be used for response planning. The need to set priorities for protection will occur only when response equipment or resources are inadequate to handle a given spill volume.

The Area Contingency Plan is a planning document intended to assist oil spill response personnel during actual response activities and with pre-spill planning. The Unified Command requires flexibility in planning response activities. This flexibility is necessary to provide the most appropriate response to a given spill event.

4620.4 Criteria for Priority Response and Types of Economic Resources

The following criteria or definitions are used to categorize economic resources in terms of priority for response:

- D = Economic activities and resources which require high water quality for their operations or existence. Resources that fall into this category would face severe, long-term economic impacts from a spill. This category includes commercial fishing areas (also have environmental rank), aquaculture and mariculture areas, marine labs, salt pond intakes, aquarium water intakes, etc.
- E = Facilities, businesses, or resources which directly use coastal or bay waters within their economic activity and which are at risk of oiling from a spill in marine waters. The resources falling into this category would face significant disruption of their activity, but shorter term potential damages from oiling than resources in the "D" category. This category would include resources such as marinas, harbors, commercial piers, industrial intakes, and parks or recreational areas.
- F = This category contains marine associated facilities, businesses and resources. These resources would face economic impacts from a marine spill, but do not depend directly on marine water for their economic base. Resources in this category will tend to face less severe damages than those identified in categories D or E. This category includes economic resources such as waterfront hotels, restaurants, shops, and residential areas. (Note: residential sites would be evacuated to avoid health risks).

4620.5 Types of Economically Significant Resources and Ranking

Listed below are various types of significant economic resources potentially at risk from oiling and the appropriate response priority category.

aquaculture, mariculture (D)
commercial fishing grounds or areas (D) aquariums, marine labs (D) facility intakes [not affecting public health] (D)
parks, beaches, recreational areas (E) vessel or boat traffic areas: shipping lanes, harbor entrances, river mouths, bays, anchorages (E) marinas, houseboat areas (E) ferries and tour boats (E) port or harbor facilities (E) boat moorings, cargo piers, terminals, fishing piers (E) ship or boat repair shops (E) tourist, hotel, restaurant areas (F) waterfront residential areas (F)

4620.6 Information About Sensitive Economic Resources

Sections 4621 & 4622 contains lists, charts, and/or maps of sensitive economic areas or resources. Below is a description of the types of information that can be provided for each identified economic resource or facility. Some information is unavailable for specific resources identified within this section.

1. Resource or facility identification number
2. Location of resource or facility
3. Brief description of the resource at risk
4. Contact names and numbers (24 hour access if available)
5. Priority response category
